May 2014 NCACHE News

The Second Annual Western NC College Access Summit was a huge success and we have posted several of the presentations on our website. We have another great opportunity to learn about college access and success at the Appalachian Higher Education Network Conference in June! See above for more info!

One area that is constantly evolving is technology. Technology in the classroom is wrought with pros and cons. On the one hand, students today are technology natives, quickly understanding new operating systems and apps having lived with screens all of their lives. On the other hand, they are inundated with information from personal devices through texting, and social media, disrupting the classroom learning flow. How can technology be best utilized to create well-rounded, techno-savvy students? See the links below for helpful hints.
